ABOUT FEAST NORFOLK

WELCOME TO FEAST NORFOLK, an exciting and beautifully presented magazine for the county's thriving food and drink scene. It is the region's only dedicated magazine for foodies, covering the entire subject, from farm to fork, plough to plate. It is brimming over with ideas for both eating in and eating out and has, at its heart, a desire to educate and, most importantly, entertain.

Created by trained, experienced and well known local journalists with contact books to die for, it can be trusted to report accurately and fairly. Feast Norfolk helps form opinions and encourage discussion. It aims to keep everyone up-to-date with new restaurant openings, and what local producers are creating; it announces product launches, and champions campaigns worth fighting for. It reports on farming news, introduces new chefs, recommends shops, tempts you with seasonal produce and mouth watering recipes and generally gets your taste buds going!

The magazine also offers a diverse selection of equally interesting lifestyle features including travel reports, interior design articles, especially the latest kitchen trends, gadget and gizmo ideas and 'grow your own' garden advice; always keeping our discerning readers up-to-date with new trends and initiatives.

The food and drink scene has never been more vibrant in Norfolk and we aim to showcase just how great it is. So why not join us?

WHO ARE WE?

Feast Norfolk is run by well known Norfolk journalist Sarah Hardy who's been shouting about the joy of great food and drink for years. She cut her teeth on the Eastern Daily Press (when it was the biggest selling regional morning newspaper in England), was the launch writer on EDP Norfolk, head of features at the EDP for 10 years and, most recently, was editor of the lifestyle monthly magazine, Places&Faces - all right here in Norfolk. She is known as being pretty greedy, very nosy indeed, and a real supporter of small independent businesses. Her cookery skills were just about killed by having two children who, respectively, ate a lot and virtually nothing. She was always inspired by the late Paul Whittome of the Hoste Arms in Burnham Market who was so encouraging and never, ever settled for second best!

Favourite dish: Got to be a Cromer crab salad, hasn't it, with buttery potatoes, too. And masses of fresh strawberries with a scoop or two of Lakenham Creamery ice cream for afters. —

WHO'S

A top-down view of a dark, textured surface, possibly a stone or concrete table. In the center, there is a slice of bright orange citrus fruit. To the right, there is a cluster of clear ice cubes. In the upper right corner, an open oyster shell is visible, showing its dark interior. In the upper left corner, another shell is partially visible. The overall scene suggests a fresh seafood dish or a drink garnish.

INVOLVED

— Sarah is joined by deputy editor Emma Outten, a former feature writer on the Eastern Daily Press who used to edit the Good Health features section every Monday and who has retained a healthy interest in good nutrition! Most recently she was assistant editor at Places&Faces magazine and interviews and profiles are a speciality. She's always first with food news and writing from one end of the food chain to the other, from the organic farmer out in the country to the launch of the latest restaurant in the city centre.

Favourite dish: has to be anything that doesn't have cinnamon in it (long story and probably best not to ask!) —
